ReFrame TV Stamp Awardees Up By 57% from the 2018-19 Season:
33 of Top 100 2019-20 Shows (With a Combined 136 Emmy Nominations)

Los Angeles, CA — ReFrame (ReFrameProject.org), a coalition of industry professionals and partner companies founded by WIF (Women In Film Los Angeles) and Sundance Institute—whose mission is to increase the number of women of all backgrounds working in film, TV and media—and IMDbPro (imdbpro.com)—the essential resource for entertainment industry professionals—announced today the TV and streaming shows from the 2019-2020 season that have earned the ReFrame Stamp based on an extensive analysis of IMDbPro data on the 100 most popular scripted shows. In an encouraging development, there was a 57% increase from the previous season in the number of gender-balanced TV and streaming series, from 21 shows in 2018-2019, to 33 shows in 2019-2020 (see full list below). Shows that have earned this year’s ReFrame Stamp include “GLOW,” “The Handmaid’s Tale,” “Killing Eve,” “The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel,” “Normal People,” “Star Trek: Picard,” “The Walking Dead,” and “Watchmen.”

Here are the ReFrame Stamp for TV recipients from the 2019-2020 Season:
The ReFrame analysis and Stamp determinations are based on IMDbPro data showing the top 100 most popular scripted TV and streaming shows in the past year (per the Emmy Awards eligibility calendar). The list is based on IMDbPro exclusive and authoritative data on the actual page views of more than 200 million monthly visitors to IMDb worldwide, factoring the removal of sports, news, non-fiction and reality programs. ReFrame also welcomes submissions from series and films not included in the top 100 of each year, with these Stamp recipients featured on IMDb and the ReFrame website.

“We are excited to see a significant 57% increase in the number of shows that have earned the ReFrame Stamp this season, and believe these criteria are driving hiring decisions both in front of, and behind, the camera” said ReFrame Co-founders Keri Putnam and Cathy Schulman. “From Regina King leading ‘Watchmen’ to ReFrame Rise fellow Hanelle Culpepper making history as the first woman to direct a pilot or debut episode of a Starfleet series in the franchise’s 53-year history, women continue to make bold moves, and we’re heartened to see a broadened field of Stamp awardees.”

ReFrame Rise director and Stamp recipient Hanelle Culpepper said: “Gender balance was a priority for us when crewing up Picard and reflects the core values of the ‘Star Trek’ universe. It may seem daunting to take that first step, to dig deeper than the usual folks in your Rolodex, but the rewards that come from different perspectives and ideas are worth it. And it opens your circle which makes achieving gender balance the next time easier.”

Producer and ReFrame Stamp recipient Bruna Papandrea said: “My personal mission, as well as that of my company, is to use entertainment to advance gender equality through balanced representation on-camera and participation off-camera. That’s why I’m proud to be a ReFrame Ambassador and support this industrywide initiative providing tangible and measurable solutions. And I know it’s more than just... being a voice, but also leading by example and ensuring my own shows, such as ‘Big Little Lies,’ meet the Stamp requirements.”

The ReFrame Stamp serves as a mark of distinction for film and television projects that have demonstrated success in gender-balanced hiring based on criteria developed by ReFrame in consultation with ReFrame Ambassadors, producers and other industry experts. Stamps are awarded to productions that hire female-identifying people in four out of eight critical areas of their production, including writer, director, showrunner, producer, lead, season regulars, department heads and crew. Additional points are awarded to content that has women of color in key positions. The criteria are iterative and will change over time as the industry evolves. The ReFrame Stamp appears on film and television end credits, marketing and publicity materials, and film websites. The Stamp also appears on IMDb at IMDb.com/ReFrame and in the “Awards” section of IMDb and IMDbPro Title Pages for ReFrame Stamp recipients. ReFrame stamped content can also be found on the in-flight ReFrame Channel on Delta Air Lines. For more information or to apply for the ReFrame Stamp, please visit ReFrameProject.org/stamp.

About ReFrame

Founded and led by Women In Film and Sundance Institute, ReFrame is an initiative that employs a unique strategy, a peer-to-peer approach, in which ReFrame Ambassadors engage with senior industry decision-makers at over 50 Partner Companies to implement ReFrame programs. The initiative’s goals are to provide research, support, and a practical framework that can be used by Partner companies to mitigate bias during the creative decision-making and hiring process, celebrate successes, and measure progress toward a more gender-representative industry on all levels.
